

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

RULES FOR PRONOUNCING THE CHINESE.

1. In this Dictionary the Chinese tones are distinguished from one another by means of two accents, and two kinds of type Italic and Roman. Syllables printed in Italics must be pronounced on a key higher, always by a fourth, and sometimes by a sixth of the scale, than the corresponding ones in Roman letters.

2. Syllables which have no accent over them ought to be pronounced, whether they be on a high or on a low key, in the same easy and natural manner in which we speak our own language. E.g., in the sentence "Do it now," the Italicized word will most likely be uttered in the same tone as the Canton colloquial word for "anger,"—nau.

3. If a syllable has the acute accent (') over it, there must be a forcible raising of the pitch of the voice in the act of enunciating it. In asking the question "Shall I do it now?" the voice rises in a somewhat similar manner, and the tone of the Chinese word nau, "to twist," would be quite appropriate for the Italicized now in this case.

4. The grave accent (`) indicates a vanishing note, which neither rises nor falls in pitch, and might be fitly termed the drawling or pleading tone. It is occasionally heard in such a phrase as "Now, do be quiet."

5. Words ending in k, p, and t, are considered by the Chinese as differing only in tone from those ending in ng, m, and n. But they are sufficiently distinguished by the spelling, and need no other mark.

6. The system of spelling here used is adapted from that of Dr. Williams' Tonic Dictionary, only dispensing with his diacritic marks for the sake of convenience in writing and printing, and, it is hoped, also in using the Dictionary. The vowels are to be pronounced as follows:—

aa, and a final, as in father.

a, not final, as in company.

e, as in they.

i, as in machine, but before ng and k, as in king.

o, final, as in no, and not final, as in hop.

oh, as in horn.

ö, as in Göthe.

oo, as in school.

u, as in fun, (interchanged with short a.)

uu, nearly as in bull.

ue, as ü in Trübner.

ai, as y in fly.

aa, as a with ea in far-reaching.

au, as ow in now.

aaü, as a with u in far-ruling.

ev, as eyo in beyond.

iu, as ee with ou in see-you.

oi, as oy in boy.

vi, nearly as in Louis,

ooi, as in cooing.

sz or sz' is a mere buzz, the vowel being scarcely heard.

7. According to the above method of distinguishing the eight tones, they will stand thus:—

溫 穩 愠 屈 雲 尹 混 核
wun wun' wun' wut wun wun' wun' wut.

It is well to keep in mind that the 5th and 6th of those tones take the aspirate (') whenever the initial admits of it, while the 7th seldom takes it. Thus we have "ch'ue, ch'ue', chue'; p'o, p'o', po'," &c.; but not "chue, chue', ch'ue'; po, po', p'o'," &c.

It is also a rule with some exceptions that syllables beginning with l, m, or n, are in the lower tones.

In colloquial discourse many common words, when they end clauses or sentences, are pronounced with a rising tone which does not properly belong to them. Thus the sun is called "it-t'au," a Buddhist priest "woh-sheung'," &c. Other words in peculiar positions have a variation of tone, as "fun" to sleep which is pronounced "fun'" when used alone to denote that a person is asleep. The following are a few examples of words which occasionally take the rising tone:—

頭 t'au', 錢 ts'in', 銀 ngan', 人 yan', 時 shi', 地 ti',
 檯 t'oi', 盤 p'oon', 房 fong', 亭 t'ing', 廟 miu', 寺 ts'ze', 櫃 kw'ai', 畫 wa', 縣 uen', 字 ts'ze', 父 foo', 傅 foo', 匠
 tseung', 排 p'aa'i', 話 wa', 誰 shui', 由 yau', 耐 noi', 罷
 pa', 樣 yeung', 慢 maan', 靜 ts'ing', 漸 ts'im', 大 taai', 便 pin', 面 min', 近 k'an', 淡 t'aam', 尙 sheung', 二 i',
 意 i', 細 sai', 過 kwoh', 舖 p'o', 快 faai', &c.

The limits of this volume will not permit a full exhibition of these variations of the tones, but the above may serve to put the beginner on his guard, and to explain what might otherwise seem like an indiscriminate use of tones on the part of the Chinese themselves.
